5. William Somerville Brownlee was born 12 June 1883 at Ravensbourne⁶³ (Rothsay)⁶⁴ Dunedin New Zealand. Died 13 June 1960 at Leichhardt, NSW. Worked as Boot maker, worked on sheep stations as a slushy (cleaned the shearing sheds), drove meat wagons for Riverstone Meat Works, worked on Glebe Island, worked for R. Brownlee & Co. Ltd. Sawmills at Ourimbah for 10 years (1917-1927) as a saw sharpener. Married at "The Parsonage", Wellington Street, Bondi by the Reverend Eustace Coplin Thomas. Witnesses were Elisabeth Lang and Mabel Thomas⁶⁵. Married to Maria Bessie Chadwick born 19 April 1893, died 31 May 1981. Maria was 2nd child of Edward Chadwick born in Kings County, Ireland circa 1859. Edward's parents, Frederick and Julia Chadwick, were farmers. Edward had come to Australia in the 1880's and was a van proprietor in Sydney. Edward married Elizabeth Ralph, born c1861 in Roscrea, Tipperary, Ireland. Edward and Elizabeth were married at St Phillips Church of England, Sydney by Rev. H. Izod Richards on 20 August 1890⁶⁶. Elizabeth died on 14 November 1901 of Typhoid Fever⁶⁷, and after her death, Catherine Bell Brownlee, by now, a widower, looked after young Maria Bessie and William Edward Chadwick. On 31 January 1905⁶⁸, Edward Chadwick suffered a fractured skull and passed away as a result of a collision between his van and a tram in Sydney. In his will⁶⁹, Catherine Bell Brownlee was sworn as Guardian of his children.

It was through my grandmother's love and inspiration that I developed an interest in the Brownlee family history. I remember spending many days and nights sitting with her as she told me stories of how it was when she was a child. I treasure those stories and without them, this book would not have been possible. I am also grateful to her for teaching me some qualities that have helped me through many personal challenges. They were persistence and perseverance. Her words still play in my head whenever I need them "If at first you don't succeed, try, try and try again"⁷⁰." Thanks to her, I learned, that if you persist with your dream and never, ever, give up, no matter what is said against that dream, then that dream can be yours.

King Robert the Bruce I was born at Lochmaben Castle in 1274. He was Knight and Overlord of Annandale. In 1306 he was crowned King of Scotland and henceforth tried to free Scotland from the English enemy. After being defeated at a battle, Bruce escaped and found a hideout in a cave. Hiding in a cave for three months, Bruce was at the lowest point of his life. He thought about leaving the country and never coming back. While waiting, he watched a spider building a web in the cave's entrance. The spider fell down time after time, but finally he succeeded with his web. So Bruce decided also to retry his fight and told his men: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try and try again".

This comment was written into this history on 19 April 2004, while I was reflecting on the 111th anniversary of Grandma Brownlee's birth - Ian Edward Brownlee, editor.

3. George Nicholas McMahon, born 24 May 1917, married Patricia (May or Mary) McGrath, born 23 April 1918.

During World War 2, Major George McMahon was renowned for his leadership qualities and skills. He was at one time in charge of heavy machine gun sections, the mortar section and the tank attack section. Being of considerable stature with red hair and quite handy with a pair of boxing gloves, it is not difficult to understand why he was nicknamed "Strawberry Bull". The title was only used with respect.

George served with the battalion throughout the war years', which included long and active service in Papua New Guinea.

At the end of the war he remained in the service for a number of years, and by the time of his retirement, he had thoroughly earned the rank of Major as well as an efficiency decoration.

Following the peacetime formation of the 4th Australian Infantry Battalion Association, George was a committed member serving 23 years on the committee and then 15 years as President – an effort that earned him a life membership.
